

GOLF
YACHTING
SWIMMING

SPORTS SECTION

BASEBALL
BOXING
TENNIS

ROBERT W. BOYCE, Editor

SEATTLE, WASHINGTON, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 22, 1923.

ESPINOSA REPEATS STATE TITLE WIN

BOB'S SPORTY TORIALS

It's sporty again. We can't least laugh up our sleeves and there's something you-all women can't do.
You-all has quit wearin' sleeves.

Mayor Brown should organize a society to look after the morals of as they are biting the hand that feeds them.

If the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals desires out-moral support in future, they will have to pay some attention to the heartless cuss who decorates Hydraulic Zany.

A hundred-dollar suit of clothes doesn't put a backward finish on a boy who wears a necktie. He isn't blasted with brains enough to get out of the bonny-tonk class.

Babe Ruth gets a salary of $52,500 per season. Ty Cobb draws down $51,500. Being honest, it must be admitted that it is more than I get, which statement may surprise some people, but it's the rotten truth.

IT'S EVERY WORSE.
(Dedicated to S. H. Hedges.)
The two-story building near door of the National Hotel is still the rear of the engine is over.
The same and the hammer are still;
But quiet and peace hangs in the
I've hopped to the flame from the gun;
The muffled whirring hum, the
The merry clatters began.

A guy with a fiddle scraps up
A feud with a player piano;
A fiddle (spicuous spicuous)
Off-keys with a shrieking soprano.
A young kid's waste is blast
With a symphony feline in some
Since the artless chorus has went,
The merry clatters began.

My nerve centers wobble and reel,
From down with a snap a squall;
From dusk until twilight a quest;
My brain and heart threaten to still
My slumber and rest are at sea;
A label has followed a day,
The Private of Disturbance moved out.

The Pies of Containment are still there.

We will now sing that dainty little titled entitled "Baby's Making Pies With Mud Turn Out Off
Mamma's Face."

I'm strong for Judge Walter S.
Franch. In denying a woman's plea for divorce on the ground that she had already been divorced four times, the judge said he took his stand on the ground that the rest of mankind was entitled to some protection.

Just think, none of us boys would be here worrying about the high cost of living, ditto taxes, if some kindly genius had been around to wise up old man Adam.

Johnny Dreher says that during the recent golf tournament at Inglewood, Ron Sten seemed to be in a hurry and did not take time to study his line. Strange, because we have always thought he was very important whilst golfing.

Born to be a saint and broken.
true—
And of this reason of praise to you.
Your purity should safely be born from human infancy.

Your whiteness pure should be un-marred.
By scandal, Goth or Hun—
And you should live in gentleness
Until your day is done.

Conceived in crowing strength and youth.
Born in a Love Nest soft as down—
Only to be ruthlessly snatched, forthwith.
By morose, Tartar or cold-climate
You should remain intact—
With trouble not in your golden soul.
You, stolen you are whirled away
in the purple dusk of a gay day.

Your cries would help; no use to beg.
For I must have my soft boiled egg with a dash of butter, sayings by Dr.
Frank L. Shaw.

Not referring to gambling in any way, at the same time they are now speaking of Jack Keane, manager of Dempsy, as the man who broke the bank in Monte Carlo, Montana.

Musical has always played a most important part in the history of the race, and the most important of all there is such a world-wide shortage of musicians. At least, no one seems to have any.

Moonlight.
Intense.
Bright night.
Innocent.
Tern out.
Back fence.
All sleep.
Gone home.

Which was no joke in our neighborhood yesterday evening.

Speaking of long distance Marathons runners, a dispatch says that a South African girl recently ran one hundred miles without stopping, but it doesn't say whether she caught the man or not.

"James H. Darling, who has been twice reported dead, has surprised his friends by returning home," says
The Detroit News. His, but we'll bet he wasn't dead either time.

Fratty near down to the end of this column, so that'll be about all for today. Will see you tomorrow with love and kisses. Why not?

Gretchen Wins.
ATLANTA, Ga., Wednesday, Aug.
22.—Frankie Garcia, Los Angeles featherweight, last night was awarded a referee's decision over Tim O'Dowd of Atlanta at the close of their ten-round scheduled fight.
Garcia outpointed O'Dowd, according to the referee, in almost every round.

HOW TIMES HAVE CHANGED

THE CHAMP
TODAY FIGHTS
HARD TO GET TO THE MEETING
ON TIME.

THE LATE
MAYOR
WAS A CHAMPION
WHO FOUGHT ANY AND OFTEN
FOR WHICH HE RECEIVED
$3,000.00.

HOW THEY DID IT YEARS AGO

The following are the names of the
fighters who fought in the South
Pacific boxing ring for the years 1918 and 1919:
1918—George Munroe, W. Yonkers
1919—George Munroe, W. Yonkers
1920—George Munroe, W. Yonkers
1921—George Munroe, W. Yonkers
1922—George Munroe, W. Yonkers
1923—George Munroe, W. Yonkers

By BURRIS JENKINS, JR.

THE CHAMP
TODAY FIGHTS
HARD TO GET TO THE MEETING
ON TIME.

THE LATE
MAYOR
WAS A CHAMPION
WHO
FOUGHT ANY AND OFTEN
FOR WHICH HE RECEIVED
$3,000.00.

HOW THEY DID IT YEARS AGO

The following are the names of the
fighters who fought in the South
Pacific boxing ring for the years 1918 and 1919:
1918—George Munroe, W. Yonkers
1919—George Munroe, W. Yonkers
1920—George Munroe, W. Yonkers
1921—George Munroe, W. Yonkers
1922—George Munroe, W. Yonkers
1923—George Munroe, W. Yonkers

Seattle Pro Comes Strong at Finish In Aberdeen Play

Phil Taylor's Long Lead of Monday Overcome With Second-Day Rush of Inglewood Golf Master.

BERDEEN, Wednesday, Aug. 22.—If the Washington State Amateur Golf Championship, which started with eighteen holes of medal qualification at the Grays Harbor Country Club course today, gives one-half the thrills that the State Open, which ended yesterday, gave, then these loyal Aberdeen souls who are paying a pretty penny for this week's golf entertainment will have had value received.

Al Espinosa, the Inglewood professional, gave a big crowd value for every one of the $200 he received as top man in the open when he came from behind with another of his driving finishes while the man he was challenging, Phil Taylor, the Oak Bay professional, was faltering in his final stride, and won the title.

While Espinosa was catching, and making the flyin' leader, with a lead to the three-quarter pole, another crowd of spectators gathered and finished close behind Taylor. This was Morris Dutra, the Aberdeen home professional.

Losses—Two on Penalty.

With Espinosa finishing his morning round with a course record tie of 47, he slipped a 13 on his second round, although he actually played but 45 strokes on this second round. A two-stroke penalty was imposed on him when he tripped and fell in a hazard at the sixth hole. He was played twice.

Taylor, in the meantime, with a point lead on the first day, was sailing along very nicely in his third round, but he was not to be so lucky. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Seattle Pro Comes Strong at Finish In Aberdeen Play

Phil Taylor's Long Lead of Monday Overcome With Second-Day Rush of Inglewood Golf Master.

BERDEEN, Wednesday, Aug. 22.—If the Washington State Amateur Golf Championship, which started with eighteen holes of medal qualification at the Grays Harbor Country Club course today, gives one-half the thrills that the State Open, which ended yesterday, gave, then these loyal Aberdeen souls who are paying a pretty penny for this week's golf entertainment will have had value received.

Al Espinosa, the Inglewood professional, gave a big crowd value for every one of the $200 he received as top man in the open when he came from behind with another of his driving finishes while the man he was challenging, Phil Taylor, the Oak Bay professional, was faltering in his final stride, and won the title.

While Espinosa was catching, and making the flyin' leader, with a lead to the three-quarter pole, another crowd of spectators gathered and finished close behind Taylor. This was Morris Dutra, the Aberdeen home professional.

Losses—Two on Penalty.

With Espinosa finishing his morning round with a course record tie of 47, he slipped a 13 on his second round, although he actually played but 45 strokes on this second round. A two-stroke penalty was imposed on him when he tripped and fell in a hazard at the sixth hole. He was played twice.

Taylor, in the meantime, with a point lead on the first day, was sailing along very nicely in his third round, but he was not to be so lucky. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

Steadily he lost his lead stroke by stroke, and he was slumping at the hole against the back of the net. His own putts were either not going down or they were flinching at the hole. On four greens he missed the hole. Taylor, looking against falling to the ground and this before he played his shot, cost him two strokes.

CINCINNATI IS GIVING GIANTS GREAT BATTLE

John McGraw Uses Everybody but the Bat Boy, but Can't Stop 'em Reds in Their Mad Dash.

CHICAGO, Wednesday, Aug. 22.—The New York National could feel the Reds' breath coming hot in the back of their neck as they started on the race toward the World Series play yesterday. The world's champions lost, 5 to 2, to Pittsburgh after using four pitchers without effect. The Pittsburgh balance took five runs in the first inning and held their lead throughout.