Neidig has not been a spectacular coach but he has been a steady one and a sort of stabilizer on the squad. This may be attributed to his sectentific training. When the squad was in the dumps it usually was Neidig who did a little inspiring. When it was on the other extreme it was he who suggested a little of the restraint for which scientifists are noted. This phase of his contribution to Idaho football will be sorely missed this fall.

Everett's Seagulis, by a double victory over Kelso while Aberdeen was only breaking even with Longview, remained a mathematical possibility for the second half title in addition to copping the first half Saturday in a game that decided that honor as well as counting in the second half. Aberdeen must win two of the three remaining scheduled games to clinch the title. If Everett wins all, and the Cats lose all, the Gulls will be champs of both halves and the league. Should the Cats lose two while the Gulls win three; a tie for the second half will result.

Three losses for Aberdeen and only one for Everett will also develop a tie making a play-off necessary.
